Benediction

New Year by Kathleen Shafer

A new year, bright with promise: it comes with no guarantee except God Himself, but He is grounds for confidence.

I love it, Lord--this new year. I've come this fare with You, and You've proved faithful. I am eager to gon on. I feel anticipation.

I want to live--to be fully alive each day You give me, to feel my feelings, not run from them, to send my roots deep into You and my leaves up into the light.

I want to plan my days--to set goals, to choose what is really important, rather than just mukklng through; but I want to be free, too, and not so bound by my plans that when they are changed, I am unable to appreciate what it is. I want to be both responsive and responible.

And I want to live, feeverntly, wholeheartedly, exuberantly, the people You give me, and, like Jesus, to love them to the end. I ask You blessing, Lord. Please grant the desires of my heart. Amen.
